Re: Comments Regarding the LightSquared Technical Working Group Report, IB
Docket 11-109

Madam;

Healy and Company is a telecommunications carrier services firm. We provide broadband delivery and network migration solutions to help carriers and network operators transform their networks. By designing and provisioning transport circuits through managing the deployment process and remote testing, we help enable carriers to support subscriber demand and faster network speeds for broadband applications. We also offer network planning expertise to assist carriers with their traffic management strategies.

Healy and Company is an equipment and carrier agnostic provider of services. We strive to offer our customers innovative and cost effective solutions through the variety of services we provide. As such having an alternative, especially in the rural environment, would enhance the choices which we could offer to our customers. This would obviously spur competition and innovation.

We believe that finding an agreeable technical solution which enables LightSquared to use the spectrum that it has legally acquired would be in the best interest of business and consumers.

Sincerely,

Eileen Healy
President and CEO
